- (d) 57-mm anti-tank cannon, Soviet make, on rubber wheels;
(e) 75-mm "Samochodka" (self-propelled) cannon on caterpillar trucks;
(f) Old German tanks, for training. They had reinforced armor and a more powerful engine had been installed; there were six such tanks;
(g) Motor vehicles: six Model "Skoda-Tudor" cars, four jeeps, one four-seater passenger car for the officers, 56 trucks (three ton), 12 trucks (two and one-half ton) and a large number of Model "Jawa 250" motorcycles. Officers' cars were equipped with radio transmitters.

5. The pay of soldiers in the regiment was 14 Kc per day; this was four Kc more than the amount paid to regular soldiers.
6. The regiment spent four weeks each summer in the training camp near Cesky Krumlov.
7. The 26th Infantry Regiment is located in Vimperk; it was the following address: Posadkove Velitclisti (Garrison Command) Vimperk 10/R. This regiment is subordinate to the Division Command in Susice. The barracks of the 26th Infantry Regiment were located at the right side of the main highway to Prachatice, in the former hotel "Vltava", a two-story building. One hundred and fifty officers and men were quartered there. Other barracks of the 26th Infantry Regiment were also located in the middle of the city, at the right side of the Vimperk-Prachatice highway, in the former printing house "Stramberger". In this two-story building 150 officers and men of the 7th and 8th Companies were quartered.
8. The Garrison Ammunition Depot was in a little woods about four minutes walk from the barracks of the Western Frontier Guards. The area was 300 x 200 m in size and was enclosed by barbed wire. The guard unit posted at the depot consisted of one commander, his deputy the head of the guard unit, nine men and two dogs. The ammunition depot consisted of one one-story brick building which served as a guard lodge and two wooden barracks. The ammunition depot was built underground. Each building was enclosed by a wire fence. The guards all watched the building at the same time and were connected by phone with the guard lodge. The ammunition and arms of the 26th Infantry Regiment were stored in the depot.
9. The old rifle range was located in a little woods near Boubaska village, northeast of Vimperk, about one and one-half km from the barracks. The dimensions of the rifle range area were 500 x 600 m. The range was used for rifles, submachine guns and machine guns.
10. Military training ground "A" was located near the barracks of the Guards, northeast of the Vimperk-Prachatice state highway. The dimensions of the training ground were 1400 x 1000m. This training ground was used for the training of engineers and for practice with the "Samochodka".
11. Military drill ground "B" was located northeast of the barracks of the Guards, at the left side of the Vimperk-Prachatice state highway. Normal military drill was carried out on this ground.
12. A new rifle range was located south of Klasterec village at the right side of the Vimperk-Volary state highway. The dimensions of this rifle range were about 1200 x 1500 m and the range was finished [redacted] The range was used for all types of weapons.
13. The Commander of the Division was Colonel (fnu) Kolovratnik, 47 years old, thin, blond hair. During a regimental inspection, Colonel Kolovratnik was accompanied by a Soviet colonel. The Division in Susice is subordinated to the Command of the 2nd Army Corps, the Commander of which is General (fnu) Papousek. Papousek was always accompanied by a Soviet colonel during the inspection.
